EVRENSEL: The daily finds it interesting that the CDs, which were sent to the U.S. to be decoded after being discovered during an operation Turkish authorities were conducting against Hezbollah six years ago, had been brought back by the FBI to Turkey's agenda in the days when Turkey is weighing the issue of contributing troops to the UN force in Lebanon. According to the daily, this move was aiming to diminish the surge of sympathy in favor of Hezbollah in the Turkish community through blurring the differences between the Hezbollah in Turkey and Hezbollah in Lebanon.

ZAMAN / EVRENSEL: Van's Third Heavy Penalty Court will most probably issue a verdict today about the case of PKK defector Veysel Ates for his involvement in the Semdinli bombing on November 9, 2006. The court had already sentenced in a June 19 trial the non-commissioned officers Ali Kaya and Ozcan Ildeniz to 39 years and 10 months in prison.
